

How do you and your partner discuss something you disagree about?

The Virginia Tech Center for Human-Computer Interaction invites couples to participate in a study about communication and technology.

What: You are invited to participate in a study to investigate and explore how people talk about things that matter to them with their partners. Our strategy is to ask you and your partner to talk about something you disagree about, in one of several technological conditions.

When: Available 2-hour time slots are listed here: [insert calendar with times]

Simply email ygles07@vt.edu for more information, to request any of the available slots, or to request a different time slot.

Where: The study takes place in McBryde 106A.

Why: We are studying the how couples discuss important topics either face-to-face or via technology.

How:

1. Request more information and sign up by emailing ygles07@vt.edu
2. Attend your agreed session in McBryde 106A

Compensation: Participating couples will be compensated $20.00 per person (that's $40.00 per couple).
